Communication Between the Besieged City and Juarez
Has Been Cut by Bandits.

Report That Northern Capital

Plot to Smuggle Ammunition
Over Border to Rebel
Chief Found at El Paso.

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 27.—Reinforcements under General Murguia are marching toward Chihuahua City to aid General Trevino and are expected to engage the Villistas some time today, according to an announcement by Mexican Consul Garcia here today.

Federal agents here were inclined to take the announcement cautiously as Murguia's force was reported from the same source to be within 12 miles of the city when the Villistas first attacked it on Thursday last. Murguia's force is estimated at anywhere between 6,000 and 16,000 men.

Uneasiness was manifested by Carranza officials at Juarez when communication with Chihuahua still was interrupted today.

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 27.—The result of the battle for Chihuahua City was in doubt early today.

One the fifth day of Villa's assault, the city remained completely isolated, telegraphic communication having been interrupted since Saturday morning. Villa had captured the penitentiary and was storming Carranza barricades in the streets when the last dispatches were filed. Rumors persisted today that the Villistas have captured the city and that General Trevino is retreating northward. These reports could not be verified, but Mexicans in Juarez grew more restless as hours passed without definite news and it was feared here that the Juarez garrison might revolt. Many Juarez families have crossed to the American side of the border in the last 24 hours, fearing an outbreak.

Carranza officials at Juarez are plainly worried over the fate of the state capital. Neither they nor federal agents here place any reliance in dispatches sent via Maria and Ojinaga Saturday, claiming a Carranzista victory.

A refuge reaching the border today told how General Salazar, now with Villa leading the assault on Chihuahua City, saved the lives of Americans at Parral when Villistas entered the town. The Americans and many other foreigners were being marched to the cemetery for execution when Salazar intervened.

"Our families now in America are receiving protection," he told Villa. "We should not kill them."

Villa reluctantly turned the Americans loose.

Federal agents today began an investigation of an ammunition smuggling plot as the result of a charge of two train crews at Juarez, charged with smuggling ammunition to Villa in coal cars. This ammunition, it was learned, was first smuggled across the border here for Carranza, but was diverted by Villa's friends. The smugglers offered to deliver to Villa 1,500,000 rounds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Joseph Brooks, 65, widely known as a theatrical manager, jumped or fell from a window of his apartment on the seventh floor of the building at 140 West 79th street today. Death was instantaneous, nearly every bone in the body being broken.

Brooks and David Belasco were partners in the production of "The Auctioneer" in which David Warfield first starred.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 27.—Chief of Police Riley of this city, has been ordered by the commission in charge of his department to prohibit the sale of all articles in Macon on Sundays with the exception of drugs and other absolute necessities. The repairing of automobiles on Sunday is banned.

The matter recently came up through a resolution adopted by the Macon Ministerial Union, urging that the law be enforced. Officers of the department are now securing data on which the city council may base a new ordinance.

It is intended that the sale of tobacco, candies and soft drinks be prohibited. There is some doubt as to whether or not the commission will permit the sale of gasoline as a necessity.

FIVE KILLED WHEN
AUTO IS SMASHED

Limited Interurban Car Car
Crashes Into Motor Car
at Grade Crossing.

Mangled Victims are Picked Up Fifty Feet From the Place of Accident.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 27.—With two deaths in Grace hospital late last night, the list of dead as the result of a speeding northbound D. U. R. Flint limited interurban car crashing into an automobile at Woodward avenue and the nine-mile road, was increased to five. Three of the victims were killed instantly. It was said today that three others who were rushed to the hospital were in a serious condition.

The dead:

Mrs. Laura Wilkenmeyer, 24 years old, Highland Park.

Joseph Wilkenmeyer, Mrs. Wilkenmeyer's five-year-old son.

Roy Hayes, 15 years old, Highland Park.

Russell Winterstein, 21 years old, Highland Park, died in Grace hospital.

Elizabeth Marchese, 20 years old, Detroit, died in hospital.

Mangled, bleeding and some unconscious, the victims were picked up by passing motorists, 50 feet from the point where the crash occurred.

Roy Hayes was driving the ill-fated machine. An eye witness says Hayes turned directly into the path of the interurban. Hayes was driving north several yards ahead of the car. The side curtains were up, preventing him from seeing the approaching car and the wind was blowing, preventing him from hearing it.

A refuge reaching the border today told how General Salazar, now with Villa leading the assault on Chihuahua City, saved the lives of Americans at Parral when Villistas entered the town. The Americans and many other foreigners were being marched to the cemetery for execution when Salazar intervened.

LINER LAPLAND
HITS SUBMERGED

May Have Been a Sunken
Wreck or Submarine on Patrol Near Nantucket.

Steamer With War Cargo
Reported in Distress 250
Miles Out From Seattle.

Big Scandinavian Steamer
Reaches New York as Bid for Shipping of World.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The White Star liner Lapland which arrived today from Liverpool reported hitting a submerged obstacle off Nantucket that may have been either a submerged derelict or a submarine. At the time the Lapland was speeding through the darkness with all her lights out to avoid any hostile "U" boats that might be in the vicinity.

The shock or the impact was so great that nearly all the 61 passengers on board were awakened by it. Some dressed and hurried to the deck. The Lapland did not stop to investigate but continued on her way under a full head of steam. Captain Bradshaw of the liner said he had received wireless warnings to watch for German submarines off the American coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—The Norwegian steamer Niels Nielsen, 3,800 tons, bound for Vladivostok with a general war cargo, is in distress 250 miles off Seattle, according to a despatch received here today by the United States naval radio station. The vessel is reported to have lost her rudder and to be virtually helpless in a heavy southwest gale. The United States ship South Dakota and other vessels are rushing to her aid.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Ever-increasing reports of German war submarines lurking off the New England coast in waiting for allied shipping caused intense anxiety in maritime circles here today. The most tangible of the flood of rumors and reports was a general warning sent out to all allied shipping by the British cruiser Lancaster, patrolling beyond the three mile limit, to beware of the underwater menace. It was reported that two war submarines had succeeded in creeping through the allied cordon and were somewhere off the New England coast.

The anxiety in shipping circles was increased by the fact that some of the largest of trans-Atlantic liners are in New York this week, each with heavy passenger lists. Included in these are two Cunard liners, Laconia and Panonia; the Anchor liner Tuscania; the White Star liner Lapland—all from British ports—and the Duca D'Aosta from Genoa.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The Scandinavian-American liner Frederick VIII, arrived here today with an unusually large passenger list, 1078 coming over from Stockholm. Coming into the harbor, the vessel met the Atlantic fleet putting to sea and dipped her colors to the gray fighters while passengers cheered.

Norway has under construction in American and Norwegian shipyards 200 ships of various sizes, and after the war will make a strong bid for world shipping, according to Christopher Hammezig, a member of the Norwegian firm of Hammezig and Johnson, who arrived on the Frederick VIII.

Norwegian liners, he said, would sail the seven seas and a line will be inaugurated between San Francisco and the Orient and the west coast of South America.

BOY HUNTER MEETS DEATH

Missing Several Days Body Is Found In Woods.

STREUVILLE, Nov. 27.—Eric Walters, 15, missing since last Friday when he left his home at Glenn's Run, to go hunting, was found dead in the woods one mile from that place this morning. The body with a bullet hole in the head was sprawling over a tree stump over which the boy had evidently fallen, discharging his rifle. Herman Walters, father of the boy, headed the searching party which found the body.

GERARD TO TAKE FOOD WITH HIM TO BERLIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Ambassador James W. Gerard admitted today he will take canned meats and other food back with him to Berlin. He will distribute these among the members of the diplomatic and consular corps in the Kaiser's empire. "I have had small amounts of food shipped across to me once or twice in the last few months," he added.

A BROTHER'S LAST TRIBUTE

A SOLDIER'S GRAVE

The photograph shows the last resting place of Sergeant Simpkins, in a military burying ground "somewhere in France," to use the phrase which the censor's laconic bulletins have made famous. Sergeant Simpkins, a headboard announces, died of wounds. It is all very brief, merely giving his number and the name of his regiment. It would have been like thousands of other military graves in France, had not Sergeant Simpkins' brother, who appeared to be a member of the same regiment, decided to make it different. He and some of the "Tommyes" "chipped in" and bought a wreath for the sergeant's grave. Possibly the sergeant's brother is dead by now, too.

TO DASH FOR NORTH CITY COAL DEPOT
POLE BY AIR SHIP FALLING THROUGH

Amundsen, South Pole Discoverer, Buying Supplies
in U. S. for Arctic Trip.

Will Supervise Details of Machine Being Constructed for His Latest Exploit.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Captain Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, arrived here today from Copenhagen and announced that he was forced to make a hurried trip to the Pacific coast to purchase supplies for his coming dash to the North Pole by ship and aeroplane. Scarcity of supplies abroad had compelled him to cross the Atlantic to buy here. He will make special purchases in Chicago and San Francisco.

The final details connected with the Curtiss machine now being constructed for him will be gone over by Captain Amundsen before his return. He insists that his machine develop from 150 to 200 miles an hour so that the last lap of his polar journey to be made in it may be started with the fullest possibility of successful conclusion.

The polar program as announced by the explorer is in three parts:

By ship as far as can be gone; beginning next March in a vessel now building from his own designs; then sledges carrying the aeroplane, and finally the aeroplane itself.

FIND FEMININE RAFFLES

Former Movie Actress Is Held for Wholesale Thefts in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—A feminine "Raffles," who for sheer audacity and high cultivation of her art pales into insignificance her famous namesake, sat in a cell at the Jefferson Market police station today while the best brains in the New York police department were endeavoring to determine "how she did it."

In her rooms which were raided by the police, were found the following:

166 pairs of unused gloves and 30 pairs worn slightly.

24 pairs of silk stockings.

14 tailor-made suits.

Three trunks of furs and laces.

Four traveling bags filled with gold and silver mesh bags.

The value of the stuff approximately $25,000 and it was all stolen from a fashionable Fifth avenue shop by the girl herself, according to the police. She gave the name of "Elizabeth Scanlon," but the police declare she also is known as Marion Clarke a movie actress. They say she has confessed to the thefts, but steadfastly refuses to explain how she did it other than, "I just walked out with it."

Inspector Parrot, famous in crime detection, characterized the case "the most remarkable" he had encountered.

WIFE MURDER CASE BEGINS

Week May Be Required to Get Jury at Fremont.

FREMONT, O., Nov. 27.—It is expected that a week will be required to secure a jury in the wife murder case of Josh Kiser, which came up for trial today before Judge Garver.

Mrs. Kiser died November 17, 1915, and it was given out that she died from ptomaine poisoning from eating oysters. The grand jury investigated, however, and indicted Kiser for first degree murder last spring, charging that he administered corrosive sublimate.

Kiser when indicted, was ill with inflammatory rheumatism and has since been in poor health. He was formerly a well-to-do farmer and later an automobile agent. The name of another woman has been linked with the case and she probably will be the star witness.

MILLION INCOMES
DOUBLE IN ONE YEAR

126 Americans Now Paying Taxes on Sums Exceeding That Amount, Report.

First Year of European War
Swells Fortunes in This Country Without Equal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Multi-millionaires with an income of $1,000,000 a year or more doubled in the first year of the European war, according to the annual report of W. H. Osborn, commissioner of Internal Revenue, made public today. In 1914 there were 44 Americans who paid tax on incomes of $1,000,000 or more; in 1915 there were 60; and the report issued today shows that 120 Americans paid tax on incomes of this size in 1916.

In 1916 single men to the number of 47,583 paid income tax, while single women to the number of 22,916 also were rich enough to bring them within the taxable limits. The total number of income tax returns, including single and married persons, is reported as 374,652.

The most numerous class of persons with taxable incomes are those earning from $5,000 to $10,000 a year; the next most numerous class those earning from $3,000 to $4,000 a year, and the third those earning from $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

The total individual income tax for the year ending June 30, 1916, amounted to $67,943,594, an increase of $26,897,432 over 1915. The European war is continuing to amass fortunes for individuals so rapidly that the indications are the returns for 1917 will show at least 240 persons with incomes of $1,000,000 a year or more.

The report shows that corporation income tax collected for the year ended June 30, 1916, amounted to $9,973,820, an increase of $17,825,189 compared with the previous year. The war tax returned to the Government for the year ended June 30, 1916, the sum of $84,278,392. This was the first full year of operation of the new tax. Receipts from ordinary taxes, such as those on liquor, tobacco, and oleomargarine, amounted to $303,567,733, making aggregate collections on all accounts for the year of $512,723,287, an increase of $97,042,263 over the year before, and the largest internal revenue receipts ever collected in the history of the nation.

Commissioner Osborn estimates that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, taxes will be collected as follows: Ordinary, $139,000,000; munition manufacturers and inheritance tax, $124,000,000; corporation income tax, $133,000,000; and individual income tax, $111,750,000, making a total estimated for the ensuing year of $507,000,000. At this rate of increase internal revenue collections will exceed a billion dollars a year in two or three years.

Commissioner Osborn's report shows that 1916 witnessed a large increase in the production and exportation of automobiles, a substantial increase in manufactured tobacco and a phenomenal increase in cigarette production.

The report declares that the Harrison Anti-Smuggling law, designed to prevent the sale of narcotic drugs, needs strengthening. It is recommended that customs agents be placed only in special cases dealing with narcotics. The commissioner receives his recommendation of last year that information in lieu of collection on the source be required in the administration of the income tax law.

The discovery of frauds to the extent of $20,000,000 marked the work of the internal revenue bureau during the year, the report says. The bureau has gathered evidence in enough cases to have recovery assessed $22,000,000 of this unpaid tax against the delinquents. The report states that 11 whiskey fraud conspirators and 31 moonshiners have been paid heavy fines. Two hundred and thirty-six tobacco factories have been seized on account of frauds.

Greek Revolutionary Troops
Under Venizelos, Take Field Against Bulgarians.

BERLIN, via Sarville, Nov. 27.—Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army of German allies smashing its way northward from the Danube has captured the important Rumanian railroad town of Alexandria. The capture was announced today by the war office in a statement on Rumanian operation.

More than 1,300 Rumanian officers and men have been taken in the past 24 hours by the victorious Teutons.

GENEVA, Nov. 27.—The archives and treasure of the Rumanian government are being removed from Bucharest to Jassy, according to a despatch here today. If the situation for Rumania becomes any more critical during the next few days it is expected that the government records will be taken to Russia.

ZURICH, Nov. 27.—Troops of the Greek revolutionary movement headed by Eleutherios Venizelos, will take their place on the battle front at once to fight the Bulgarians, says a despatch from Salonika today. They have been equipped by the allies with whom they will co-operate. The Venizelos government at Salonika declared war against Bulgaria on Friday, news of this being received in London on Saturday.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Russia is making a tremendous effort to save Rumania from complete domination by the German allies. Fresh reinforcements of Russian troops are on their way from the Carpathians to Central Rumania to relieve the hard pressed Rumanian armies between the Alt valley and Bucharest.

BUCHAREST NEARS FALL
Rumanian Capital To Be Reached By Germans This Week.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The capture of Bucharest, the Rumanian capital by the German allies under General von Falkenhayn and Field Marshal von Mackensen is expected this week.

At the rate the Austro-German troops have been moving through western Rumania during the past few days, Bucharest should be reached before Thursday. Another desperate stand by the Russians and Rumanians in previously prepared positions is expected before the Teutons reach the gates of the capital. The Forces of Von Falkenhayn and Von Mackensen, now linked up on the wallachian Plain, are sweeping onward in a great encircling movement. At some points they are only 45 miles from Bucharest. The combined armies of the German allies form a semi-circle, stretching from the Carpathians to the Danube south of Bucharest.

East of the Alt, according to despatches from the front, the roads are clogged with retreating troops, panic stricken civilian fugitives and supply wagons.

The Rumanians set fire to many villages in their flight and burned great supplies of food and war material.

In central Rumania, south of Rothernburg Pass, the Austro-Germans are driving on Piatra and Slatina, two railway towns of strategic importance. Heavy assaults are being made against the defenses of these two places. Bucharest was bombarded all day Sunday by German airmen.

Rumania entered the war just three months ago today. It is probable that the fourth month will see Ferdinand's kingdom turned into another Serbia.

Sofia, Nov. 27.—The capture of three Rumanian towns by the forces of General Von Mackensen that crossed the Danube from Bulgaria was reported by the war office today. The official statement announces the capture of Italian attacks in Macedonia.

The text of the communication follows:

"Rumanian front: Artillery firing and patrol operations have taken place in Dobrudja. Bulgarian detachments, co-operating with the Germans, crossed the Danube near Svislovat. After some fighting Zimnitsa was taken. We captured large stores of grain there. German troops that crossed the Danube near Samovit, occupied Isacul and Rakovitsa. Detachments of Bulgarians that crossed the Danube crossed the Danube co-operated with the the German force that took Turnu Severin.

"Macedonian front: An Italian battalion that tried a counter attack near Tarnova was repulsed. After a bombardment the enemy made a futile attack against our position on Hill No. 1050 east of Paraleve."

WARNS PLAGUE MAY RECUR NEXT SUMMER

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 27.—Preparedness to diagnose and treat infantile paralysis in its early stages is the only means for preventing its spread, Dr. W. A. Evans, of Chicago, told the Southern Medical Association here.

"Experience teaches us there will be an epidemic each year in some part of the United States," he said, "and who knows but that it will be in the south next year? Last year the scourge was of infantile paralysis, but it prevailed mainly in the east and north. It is known that this disease never burns so violently in one community during two successive seasons, hence the people of the south, as well as those of the west, should prepare themselves to be able to check its progress."

AVIATOR RUTH LAW'S NAME IN BIG DEMAND.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Ruth Law, the young woman who flew from Chicago to New York in a "little old last year's" airplane can't get a moment's peace.

Two telephones in her room at the Hotel McAlpin ring continually. Those calling want to use her name to advertise petticoats and raincoats, perfume, soap and "the kind of cold cream Ruth Law uses."

She has received an offer of a contract from a theatrical firm which wants her to ride upside down on a motorcycle, and an invitation to lecture in girls' schools. But she believes she will accept a proposition to make a ten weeks' lecture tour of the big cities of the country, for which she will get $25,000.

Judge Klingbe is sitting on the bench and Attorney Ludwig is defending the prisoner.

The jury, which was secured at 11:15, is as follows: Messrs. Scholes, Heringhaus, Spitznagel, George Halker, Kersh, Strode, Van Cleave, Herh, Alt, Cook, Carr and Rada-baugh. Two other witnesses besides Elzy will testify for the prosecution. The defense has called 12 witnesses.

ROTARIANS WILL REMEMBER CO. C.

Boys at the Front in Texas Will Hear From Lima in Substantial Manner.

Lieut. Melvin C. Light Brings Report From Border That Stirs Rotarians.

Lieutenant Melvin C. Light, of the Second Regiment, O. N. G., recently returned from the border on Turkish, was a guest at the Rotary luncheon today, and his report of the boys of Company C, proved an inspiration that took on material form, when it was suggested that the boys of Company C be furnished with a Thanksgiving dinner. Rotarian Curtin immediately took the floor and proposed a collection be taken immediately for the purpose, and as a result a purse of $70.25 was raised, which it is presumed will buy a "turkey or two." Arrangements will be made to complete the plans by wire in order that the treat will be on time.

Mr. Light stated that the boys of Company C were in excellent health; in fact better than when at home, and that their conduct in the service is a credit to Lima.

Entertainment during the luncheon hour was furnished by Rotarian Charles Deardorff, manager of the Orpheum theater, who presented Madame Sumiko and Co., Japanese singing and dancing artists. Madame Sumiko possesses a rare voice and the three little "Japanese maids" executed clever dancing which won the hearty applause of the gathering. Madame Sumiko made a great hit following the rendition of two opera selections by singing "Everybody Come and Rag With Me" first in English and then in Japanese.

Other guests of the lunch on were W. C. Kaul, of Toledo, guest of Rotarian F. C. Gooding; Gus Kalk, guest of W. B. Richler; Messrs. R. C. James and H. C. Miller, of the Northern Gas and Electric company; Hammond Ind., guests of Rotarian E. R. Curtin.

Unskilled female labor in the leather and metal goods trades is in special demand, and already thousands of women have taken the places of the men called away to the war.

MUSIC CLUB EVENT ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Philadelphia Orchestra of 94 Pieces is Here for This Evening's Concert.

Lima Will be Visited by Hundreds Who Love Melody from Nearby Towns.

The coming of Leopold Stokowski and his great Philadelphia orchestra of 94 pieces to Memorial hall tonight, the second artist concert of the Women's Music club, is a leading subject among lovers of orchestra music not only in Lima, but in towns within a radius of 50 miles to Lima. Patrons should go early, for once the program is begun, late arrivals will not be seated until one of the movements has been completed. The program will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock. It is expected, judging by the sale of seats, one of the largest and most appreciative audiences, which ever filled Memorial hall will greet the company of musicians tonight. Society will attend in large numbers and ermine and laces and fashionable winter gowns will predominate in the large music hall.

One of the numbers will be the much-talked-of Rimsky-Korsakov suite, "Scheherazade."

The hostess orchestra, to be composed of the orchestra, is a magnificent piece of orchestration—as one writer describes it "An almost matchless cartoon, in respect to both charm of subject and symmetry of design."

The design is Oriental, of course, as the listener follows the wandering, imagination of the beautiful, story-telling Sultana. To see Stokowski direct this wonderful score is never to forget it. From the sea and the vessel of Sinbad to the conclusion Stokowski directs as one inspired and gives the most vivid tonal paintings. His concept and desires meet with hypnotic orchestral response.

With the orchestra comes Thaddeus Rich, concertmaster, who will play the Vieuxtemps concerto No. 4 in D minor.

Then, too, there will be played the fascinating Bizet Suite "L'Arlésienne" with its picturesque movements and with the Tone Poem "Enlandia" by Jean Sibelius. Surely music lovers of Lima will enjoy a Thanksgiving of good things tonight.

Two Blown Open by Yeggs Who Only Get $76.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 27.—Miss Bertha Bauer, stenographer, discovered two safes blown open and a third safe "loaded" with nitroglycerin and with wires running to it from the electric light socket when she entered the offices of the Cleveland and Sandusky Brewing Company in a downtown office building today.

The "loaded" safe contained nearly $1,000. Only $28 in cash, a chain worth $50 and a few checks were taken. Finger prints on checks dropped on the floor left the only clue.

NOTED SOLOIST IS NOT OF USUAL TYPE

Celebrated Leader States Almost All Big Orchestras Are Union Bodies.

Says He Has Appeared at Twenty Concerts in the Three Weeks Just Past.

Thaddeus Rich, soloist at tonight's symphony concert of the Philadelphia orchestra at Memorial hall, willingly discussed music and kindred themes to a Times-Democrat reporter this afternoon, shortly after arriving in the city. The orchestra is quartered at the Hotel Norval.

Mr. Rich violates all the musical traditions in appearance, for, instead of being long-haired and soulful, he is short, inclined to rotundity, rosy, bespectacled and genial. There is just a slight tendency to baldness.

"The musicians of the Philadelphia orchestra," he said, "are union men. Most of the big orchestras are union. The Boston orchestra is, I believe, about the only one which is not. And our minimum wage scale is twice that of the Boston players."

Mr. Stokowski's plan to encourage the younger musicians of Philadelphia, which is being widely talked of at present, was a favorite topic with Mr. Rich.

"We have a committee of about ten," he explained, "whose business it is to examine and pass upon all candidates. A musician judged by this committee to have the requisite standard will receive a medal and will have a chance to play with the orchestra."

"I have appeared at more than 20 concerts the last three weeks," he answered in reply to a query. "My work with the orchestra on tour will be a little slack, too, for I am playing now, in addition to a solo in the violin, and in addition I have a regular solo as a soloist."

POISON "STREAKS" KILL MYRIAD FISH

Deal Death Wholesale to the Finny Tribe in Gulf Waters Off Florida Coast.

Experts Suspect That Gas Emitted by Volcanoes in the Sea is Destroyer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Millions of fish are dying in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, off the Florida west coast, and the federal bureau of fisheries has rushed an expert to that locality to try to solve the mystery of "poison streaks" that are coloring the water for miles up and down the coast.

Not only are tons of fish being washed ashore, but poisonous vapors are arising from the water, killing dogs, chickens and small animals by the hundreds. H. F. Taylor, bureau of fisheries expert, is now on the ground.

The only explanation bureau official can suggest for the miles long stripes of brownish, deadly water is a possible underwater volcanic eruption of poisonous gases. Fishermen along the coast believe swamp drainage is responsible, but the federal experts take little stock in that theory.

The first evidence of unusual conditions appeared several weeks ago when a great quantity of dead fish was cast up on the beach, near the mouth of Tampa bay. Great quantities of dead fish appeared on the beaches further to the north; then the beaches of the Florida west coast were littered with them for several hundred miles.

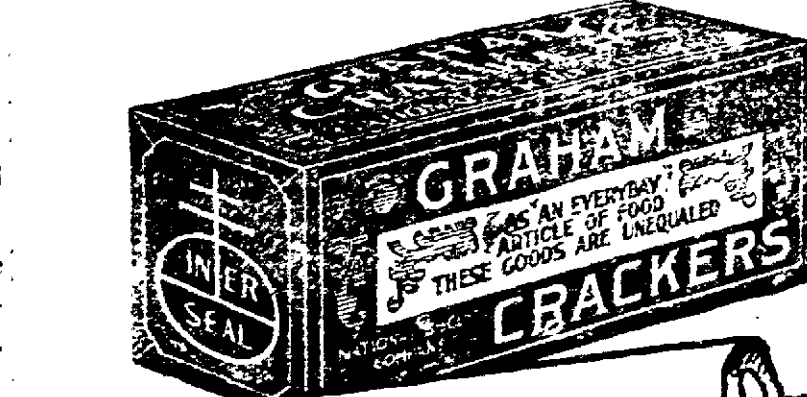

The decaying fish have created a stench that is driving residents from their beach homes and the inhabitants of the region are complaining of an epidemic of coughing, similar to whooping cough. Conditions along the water front have become so intolerable that men have quit their regular employment to clear the beaches of dead fish.

The first word the bureau of fisheries had of Florida conditions was an appeal sent in by fishermen of that locality asking that something be done by the government to remedy conditions. Dr. H. M. Smith, commissioner of fisheries, and Dr. R. E. Cocker, his assistant, in charge of scientific inquiry, conferred on the matter, and Investigator Taylor was at once sent to Florida.

Fisheries officials say that seismic, or earthquake disturbances, were recently reported in southern Georgia and Alabama, and a survey of the bureau's records show that similar reports of dead fish cast ashore, following earthquake disturbances, were received in 1844, 1854 and at other times up to 1908. There is no record, however, of "poison streaks" appearing on the surface or of poisonous gases rising and spreading inland.

One man at Naples, Fla., discovered that more of his chickens died during the day when they were in the open air than at night when they were confined in their coops. Believing that the atmosphere contained poisonous gases he concluded that the gas must come from the gulf, as the breeze was usually inland during the day. To test his theory he took a dog down to the beach and tied it. At the end of several hours he found the dog unconscious. However, it revived after being carried inland away from the stiff sea breeze.

Another evidence of the deadly work of the "poison streaks" was noted, Dr. Smith said, by the crew of a fishing boat. The boat was fitted up with tanks that hung over-side, where the fish could be kept alive. The tanks were constructed

SUFFRAGISTS LOSE THEIR BIG LEADER

Death of Mrs. Boissevain Removes a Great Fighter for Rights of Women.

Began Her Campaign When at Vassar School; Model Record as College Athlete.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, widely known suffragist and welfare worker, who died in a hospital here shortly after midnight, after an illness of 10 weeks, was 30 years old.

Mrs. Boissevain was stricken suddenly while addressing an audience in this city during the recent political campaign and fainted on the platform at the meeting. She was removed to a hospital and her husband and parents rushed from New York to join her here.

Mrs. Boissevain's illness was diagnosed as aplastic anemia and blood transfusion was resorted to in attempts to improve her condition. Miss Vida Milholland twice gave blood for this purpose and on four other occasions friends submitted to the ordeal in hope that benefit would result. After each transfusion temporary improvement was followed by relapse.

A few days ago the physicians in charge stated that there was practically no hope for Mrs. Boissevain, but thereafter she rallied and it was thought that she might recover. Late yesterday she began to sink. Her husband, Eugene Boissevain; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Milholland of New York, and her sister, Miss Vida, were present when she died.

Mrs. Boissevain had been for many years widely known for her activity as a woman suffragist, a social welfare worker, an advocate of socialism and as a practicing lawyer.

As a student at Vassar college, 1905-9, although known as the college beauty and possessed of wealth and position, she shunned society as such and shocked the more conservative college opinion by her radical social views. One of her acts during this period was to hold a suffrage meeting in a graveyard at night, when permission to hold the meeting in the college chapel had been refused her. She also made a name for herself as an athlete, being captain of her class hockey team, which won the college championship, and a member of the 1909 track team, at which time she established a new record for the mile in the eight-pound shot-put at 31 feet 8 1/2 inches.

She began the practice of law in 1912 as a clerk in the offices of James W. Osborne, her first case being the defense of "Red Phil" Davidson, charged with the murder of "Big Jack" Zeig. Her next case was the defense of Gee Doy Yung, accused of murder in a Chinatown tong war, and she was successful in obtaining his acquittal.

In July, 1913, she married by a civil ceremony in London, Eugene Boissevain, a wealthy Hollander, to whom she had been introduced by William Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph. She returned to this country and continued her practice of law and suffrage activities. In 1915 she was denied permission to make a suffrage speech at the fiftieth anniversary ceremonies of Vassar college. Later the same year she went to Italy as a war correspondent and was forced to leave Italy by the authorities there because of her pacifist writings.

In 1916 she went as a delegate on the Ford peace ship, but left the party at Stockholm because, as she said in a statement, "the undemocratic methods employed by the managers are repugnant to my principles."

Mrs. Boissevain was born in New York Aug. 6, 1886, receiving her early education in New York, London and Berlin.

"Save Your Feet — It Pays in the Long Run"

The Shoe with the Anchored Arch
Carried in Stock in Four Styles.

Gentlemen:— Does Shoe Fit and Foot Comfort Appeal to You?

Never before in the history of shoe making has there been a shoe that gave a man such a sense of absolute, all-over fit and supreme comfort the instant the foot slides into it, as does the "Arch Preserver" Shoe.

The fit and "feel" of these shoes are really a marvel, even to those men who always have felt that their shoes were a perfect fit and that they were the acme of comfort. The difference between "Arch Preservers" and other types of shoes is not a matter easily described with words. The difference must be felt to be appreciated.

So we say, come in and slip your foot into your size. There will be no obligation to buy. There will be no urging or "salesmanship" used. Every pair of "Arch Preservers" is sold strictly on the "feel."

Let us impress this one point on your mind:— These shoes are stylish shoes—gentlemen's shoes—designed primarily for normal feet. Very many men who have weak or flattened arches find that "Arch Preservers" make their feet look, act, and feel just like good feet.

Again let us say, give up the few moments to try one on. You may decide, as others have that you have discovered a new world.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, itchy who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

SUNDAY SERVICES

Did you attend services Sunday? If not you missed an opportunity that cannot be recovered. There is a place for you in some house of worship and it is only for you to take it. Regardless of creed or non-affiliation, every man is better for having attended a service of worship. Lima churches are open to you, extend you a cordial welcome, and your attendance will give you a feeling of having a part in doing things. The benefit is mutual, as your presence is an inspiration to those in active charge of service of worship, and there is no doubt that you will derive some benefit. If you were not present yesterday, try it next Sunday.

CIVIC SPIRIT

How often you hear the expression "Lima is the best city of her size in the country". Just often enough that many of us do not realize the full meaning of the reputation that Lima has justly earned, and what really makes it a fact.

Any city is just as big and broad as her people, and that Lima is filled with big, broad-minded and public-spirited citizens is evidenced in the things that are accomplished daily in furthering civic conditions.

Probably the start of big activity in civic progress was the proposition of the old Progressive association in arranging the sale of the Fauror farm in city lots, providing the new plant for the Lima Locomotive works, as well as a city park site, which has developed into one of the beauty spots of northwestern Ohio. The locomotive plant has developed into one of the leading enterprises of its character in the country and today its only need is more men and material to take care of the orders that are booked months and months ahead. Following this deal, the old plant of the locomotive works was acquired and formed the nucleus for the opening of the East Iron and Machine plant, which has successfully weathered its infancy troubles and is now a strong growing institution.

Just a few weeks ago the Chamber of Commerce proposed the sale of seventy-six lots in North Lima, known as the Buckeye addition, to provide funds for a live concern and additional factory sites. The committee selected to make a canvass for the sale of these lots spent the short period of six days in disposing of every lot, and an important factor is that the lots were subscribed by citizens in every section of the city.

The public has been called upon to vote on bond issues for river, street, public school and water works improvements, and responded readily. Later, in the instance of proposed sewer construction and extension, the issue failed, but there is but little doubt that it was not thoroughly understood or it would have carried.

These are just a few of the many examples of why "Lima is the Best City of Her Size in the Country", and one that every citizen of Lima is, and well he may be, proud to claim as his home.

EARLY RISING

Experience has taught many of us that early rising is healthful, as well as conducive to success. Many offer an argument that it is not essential to success in the commercial world. This may be true in many cases. But aside from the commercial view, there is the unquestionable pleasure of getting out early and breathing the fresh morning air, a satisfaction of starting the day's work with the beginning of the day.

One often hears the remark, "I would like to get up early but I cannot go to sleep early." Just a word on this—begin at the other end—get up early a few mornings and you will have no difficulty in going to sleep at a reasonably early hour, and with the coming of morning, you will realize that one hour's sleep before midnight is equal to two after that hour.

Farmers may not be qualified as experts in food distribution, but they know something about its production. When they say, through their grange, that an embargo on wheat and other cereals would in the long run mean decreased acreage, they state a fact, and one not without its bearing upon future problems of food at home and trade abroad.

"Want Youth of Land Prepared for War". A woefully incomplete statement of the national desire. What we expect to acquire by physical and military training is a youth bodily prepared to meet all the duties of a good citizenship, including, in a contingency, the duty of national defense.

A NATION OF 102,826,309

The wars are costing the United States in this decade 2,600,000 in immigrants, yet we are gaining in numbers somewhat faster than in the last decade; or so the census bureau estimate of population for Jan. 1, 1917, would indicate. It is 102,826,309, or, including the islands, 113,309,285.

The end of the year completes two-thirds of the decade and shows a gain of not quite 11,000,000. A total of 108,000,000 or more may be expected in 1920. If peace had continued, a gain of nearly 20,000,000 would not have been impossible.

To New York the census bureau assigns for six and two-thirds years more than twice the gain the state census allowed for five years; it is doubtless nearer the truth. By 1920 the Empire state should reach 11,000,000. At the present rate Pennsylvania should increase 1,240,000 in ten years, California 900,000, Texas 864,000, Illinois 832,000. California has already about as many people as declared their independence in 1776.

The Emperor Claudius took a census of 6,945,000 Romans—non only. That may have meant in all 20,000,000 citizens. Gibbon thought slaves and provincials might have made an empire total of 120,000,000, but it was a generous guess. The British, Chinese and Russian empires now surpass the United States in total numbers; none equals it in the number of educated and energetic whites—unless we count as a single power the vast Germanic system which reaches from Antwerp to Bagdad under the rule of Berlin.

In Great Britain, as a result of war conditions, 766,000 women are filling positions formerly restricted to male labor. Will they quit after the war or will a large percentage of them continue in these forms of employment? Whether the longer participation of Englishwomen in factory and mill employment and their experience in earning good wages will make them loath to abandon their industrial independence after the men come back from the trenches is an interesting problem.

Whether the next house will be controlled by the Democrats or Republicans may turn on the official count in one or two doubtful congressional districts, and a mere handful of votes there. It is too early to send congratulations to candidates for the speakership.

GOOD EVENING.—Plenty to be thankful for this year.

BRIZBEND
 Travelogue by Nilsah.

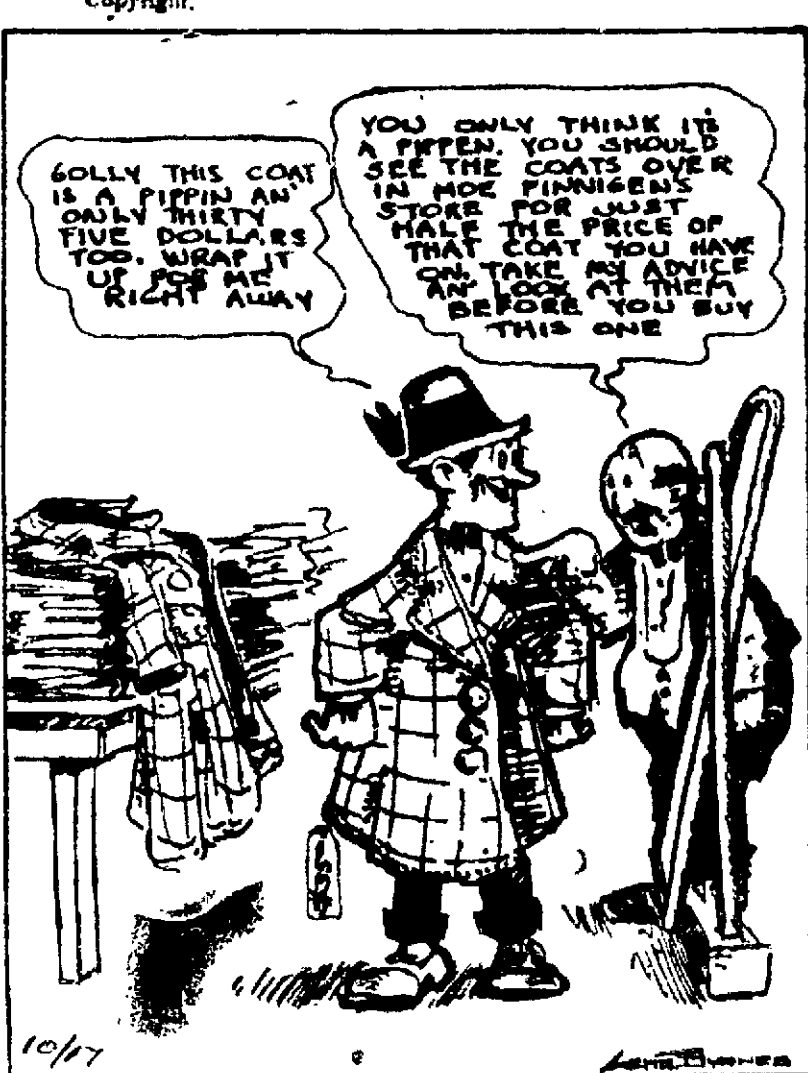

One wonders how Brizbend is getting along today. A quiet mountain city, it lay in the path of the first great Serbian retreat before the German drive. For a few days it figured as a date-line in the war dispatches. The current of Serbian and allied troops swept through it by tens and hundreds of thousands. Hungers filled it. The tide of war flooded it. Then the wave passed and Brizbend sank from view.

It lies at the foot of a steep mountain, half in the valley and half straggling up the slope of the hill. Over it frowns a gray fortress, where the Serbs kept thousands of prisoners two years ago. Down through the center of it flows a restless, incessantly complaining mountain river, cooped between man-made quays in the heart of town, hampered only by grassy banks in the suburbs. The Turks have the best of their comfortable dwellings along the riverbanks; they are an important and prosperous part of the population, for this was formerly a city of European Turkey.

They are a mixed crowd who pass up and down the steep crooked streets of Brizbend, even in peace times. The Turk is there in his white turban, aloof and superior. Tall, well-built Montenegrins from the mountains walk with a certain shyness and suspicion. Albanians with their peculiar grace and half-Oriental, half-European manner. The Serbs themselves are picturesque figures enough, especially the peasant in his national costume. The dresses of all these clans with a dozen vivid colors, standing out against the soft green of the thick grassy slopes which are draped even from house to house on many of the streets.

The river is the heart of the city. Over the very old stone bridge that spans it in a single fine arch, sooner or later every citizen will pass. If you are looking for someone, the easiest way to find him is to sit you down by the bridge and wait until a pleasure Allah to send him to you. And while you wait you will have a chance to see all the varied life of a little-known meeting place of Europe and Asia.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

Death Wipes Out All But the Memory of Our Kindly Virtues

BY DOROTHY DIX

IF, AMONG all its weaknesses and failures, humanity keeps one angel trait still unsullied, it is the sublime forgiveness it accords the dead. It is as if the tears that are shed above every grave turned into a kind of rainbow glory through which we looked back upon an ended life and saw it transfigured.

No need to speak of good of the dead. Death itself becomes the crucible in which our faults are transmuted into virtues.

It is never the unkind word we recall, but the gentle deed; never the faltering act, but the high and noble purpose; and the best of us may be thankful to feel that when our time comes, too, to join the vast majority, compassion will turn its pitying eyes away from our faults and see only the good we fain would have done. To be judged tenderly when we are gone is the great boon that all—rich and poor, high and humble—must ask of their kind, and that is never asked in vain.

Sometimes there is a great deal of heart-breaking pathos in this loyalty to the dead. There may have been years of cruelty, of estrangement, or neglect, but death wipes it all out, and we go back to some simple and quiet hour that we may remember without shame or remorse.

The mother who sobs above the dead body of her wayward son recalls nothing of the agony, of the disgrace he may have brought her. She sees nothing of the sin-marked face. She has returned to the days when, a little child, he lay upon her breast and looked up into her face with eyes that were still full of the mysteries of heaven.

Sometimes we see a wife who has been betrayed, degraded, neglected, insulted, kneeling at her husband's bier. To her death has blotted out the memory of her wrongs, and she mourns the lover of her youth, the hour that made the world an Eden rose sweet with love's young dream, and most of all her tears are for the dreamer and the dream, the love that faltered, the light that failed, the lucence of the soul that wasted itself upon the desert air.

A story is told of a drunken hoodlum who lay dead in the poor place he called home. It was the end of a life that had begun and ended in sin and whose days had known nothing but evil. Not one gentle deed shed its perfume above its waste; not one high aspiration shone like a star across its murky way, but none the less a weeping woman clung to the senseless clay, and broke above it the alabaster casket of her love.

"Bill was always so good to me," she sobbed. "In all the beatings he abuses "or the poor creature who had set her heart upon him! How she must have cowered away from his anger; how often she must have crouched in the dark closet on the stairs and hidden until he slept off his drunken fury, afraid of her very life.

Often and often he had beaten her so that a very dog, so treated, might have turned upon him and slain him; but her patience and love never faltered. She covered the poor, bruised shoulders with her ragged frock. She told little lies about falling and hurting herself, and her eyes dared one to doubt the story they knew to be false. Loyalty and devotion and love could go no further.

And now Bill was dead. Nothing more to fear from the heavy hand; nothing, one would say, to remember but cruelty and brutality.

But not so. Her heart went back over the long, long years, and plucked the one poor flower that bloomed along the arid pathway. He had never beaten her so that the marks would show!

Death wiped out the score against him.

BILLY SUNDAY AFTER, NEW YORK SINNERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—New York sinners are going to "hit the trail" hard next April or Billy Sunday will be greatly surprised and disappointed. Great preparations are under way for the revival here.

Sunday is directing the work here by mail and telegraph. The Sunday committee is showing a great activity. A vast tabernacle will arise at One Hundred and Sixty-eighth street and Broadway, where the Yankees once had their base ball park. Instead of insisting on the churches being closed here during the revival, as he has done in other places, Sunday will encourage them to remain open. He is going to have "trail riders" enroll immediately with regular congregations.

Manhattan has been divided into 18 districts, with a special corps of advance agents in each. Great attention will be paid to the "White Light" section.

SCHOOL TEACHERS TO GET MODERN IDEAS

St. Louis Instructors Are Given Special Training in the Art of Pedagogy

College Degrees Are Also Possible for Those Attending Municipal School.

By Frederic J. Haslin.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 27.—In this city, half the teachers in the public schools are graduates of a local institution maintained for the express purpose of training and turning out teachers for service in St. Louis. This same institution, the Harris Teachers' College, is testing out some advanced ideas in the teaching of teachers that ought to interest anyone who teaches or has children to be taught.

This Teachers' College now affords an opportunity to any public school teacher in the city to get a college degree in her spare time. She will have to work for it, because it is no light task in itself to do a teacher's ordinary work, and earning a college degree has always been regarded as a sufficient task for the average woman without doing much on the side. To combine the two over a period of six years, as may be necessary in many cases before a teacher gets the equivalent of a college degree under the new system, calls for a combination of persistence and ambition; but the teachers themselves are largely responsible for the inception of the plan. A college degree is the thing desired above all others by most teachers who regard their profession as a life-work, and the whole community really ought to help them in every way possible, for in no other profession is self-improvement so much a service to the public, in order to see how such a plan is possible here it is necessary to consider the somewhat peculiar status of Harris Teachers' College.

The quality of the public school teacher is a vital concern to every citizen. No other agency has such an influence over the development of the next generation, and no other factor is more carefully considered by the average prospective resident. In the last analysis, the quality of the individual teacher determines the quality of the school system. Here in St. Louis they have set up and operate their own private plant for the manufacture of teachers, so to speak. They knew what they wanted, and they determined so far as possible to get the exact article, even if it cost a little extra. Harris Teachers' College is a unique institution, inasmuch as it exists solely to turn out teachers for service in the public schools of a single city. Every applicant for admission has to sign a contract stating that she is willing to teach in the city schools here for at least two years after her graduation, and that she is taking the work offered in good faith, as a preliminary to service.

The college is supported by municipal taxation, although the city bears its full share in the support of all the state normal schools. It is thus a "public school" but its duty to the public is interpreted by these in charge in rather a broad way. They do not feel under any obligation to open their doors to local residents simply because such residents are tax-payers or daughters of tax-payers. They believe that the fact that the tax-payers support the school simply puts them under an obligation to raise the standard of training for teachers in the public schools as high as possible, and thus repay the greatest possible number of citizens for their support. Hence they make their entrance and graduation requirements as high as they can. If the number of teachers earning certificates begins to be too large, they raise the requirements.

This is in sharp contrast to the procedure of the ordinary normal school or college, which, while it may raise its standards as often as you please, never does so with the idea of limiting attendance. The ordinary practice is to set a standard, and put as many students as possible through a course that enables them to pass that standard. Here, on the contrary, the idea is to train a certain given number of students, and to set the standard at a height that will rule out all but that essential minimum. Of course, in practice the thing cannot always be worked out to a hair's breadth fineness, but that is the principle, and it is in many ways the exact opposite of the usual one.

That it operates is due to the fact that this college is maintained by the city for a particular purpose—the training of teachers; and the officers have no right to spend money in training more teachers than the city needs. If they are overburdened with applicants they can only take advantage of the fact to make a more stringent selection. It is a view of the educational process based on the interests of the community rather than those of the individual, and obviously it has to be confined to certain special schools, but when so confined it seems to make for efficiency. There is no injustice wrought, because the state supplies free normal schools, and the city bears its share in their support. As an instance of the way requirements may be raised, recently the school found itself turning out more teachers than the city at that time needed. The original entrance requirement for men and women trained at the St. Louis schools was simply graduation from high school. Any high school graduate might be accepted for admission. In the late of a surplus of material, the authorities simply cut a third of the material away—the least promising third. They raised the standard of entrance so that only graduation in the upper two-thirds of a high school class would satisfy them, thus leaving the desired reduction in the number of applicants and at the same time an improvement in their average quality. Regarded in the light of the ordinary public school theory, this act would have been an injustice to the banished third, who might claim the same rights as their companions to enjoy the training offered by the school supported by public taxation. But this school recognizes its duty to the public only through the medium of the public school system, and its position is sound.

This same obligation to the city—a recognition of the fact that it is maintained for the definite purpose of making the teachers in the elementary schools a better chance to make themselves more efficient—has led to the establishment of extension work, which can be pursued by teachers in their evenings and in summer vacation, and this extension work in turn has led to the chance for a college degree for any teacher who is willing to work for it.

When the extension work began, a few years after the school itself was founded, it was intended for the teaching forces then in service, who were drawn from varied sources, but only to a negligible extent from the college itself. Hence the extension courses largely parallel the regular courses. But each year saw a large number of the graduates of the school enrolled in the public school staff, until now almost half the elementary teachers in the whole city are graduates of this one institution. Hence, instead of repeating the work of the regular course in extension courses, there is an increasing chance to supplement it; for a large percentage of the graduates come back for extension work after they have begun active teaching in the city. Now they have laid out a set series of courses for six years in advance, so that any teacher may plan her summer and spare time classes for six years from today, with a degree equivalent to that conferred by any college at the other end. It will call for work and determination, but these will be forthcoming.

For this teachers' college is a striking illustration of the way in which the young woman of today is taking up the profession of teaching. There is of course a new attitude toward the question of woman and the professions spreading in all directions; but teaching is the profession that she has always claimed as by right. For the first six school years at least, authorities agree that children should be taught by women. The women are making themselves more and more efficient in their field, until, in some cities—as here, for example—they look for the day when all school teachers shall be college graduates. There is no spirit that will work a wider improvement than this appetite for self-improvement on the part of the school teacher.

HERCINE HELPED IN NAVIGATING VESSEL

Captain's Wife Stood Watch on the Resolute, When the Crew Struck.

Some of the Men Would Not Work, but Were Finally Fined and Paid Off.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 27.

When the American four masted lumber schooner Resolute from Gray's Harbor, Wash., U. S. A., reached this port it was with a heroine on board—although the lady in question is by this time so used to the hazards of the sea that she hardly lays claim to that distinction. She is Mrs. T. Endressen, wife of the master of the Resolute. Quasi-military on the part of the crew obliged Captain Endressen, his wife, one loyal sailor and a steward to navigate the vessel hundreds of miles in the mid-Pacific for 28 days.

During this time she daily did a trick of eight hours at the wheel and at night stood watch in all weathers so that her husband could get a little sleep. To result was that when the recalcitrant crew decided to go to work to avoid being put in irons she and the skipper were on the verge of nervous prostration. She had averaged only six hours sleep out of every 24 for a month and the captain had averaged but four. How he would have succeeded without his helpmeet it is hard to say.

The Resolute left Gray's Harbor for Melbourne on June 30. Nineteen days out five sailors and the two mates complained that they were being overworked and asked the captain to head for Honolulu. When Endressen asked them the reason for this demand they replied: "We will tell you when we get to Honolulu." This was too vague to suit the master, and when the men struck, he, Mrs. Endressen, the faithful seaman and the steward took charge of the Resolute and kept her headed still for Australia. Three days later the strikers again assumed their duties, but upon July 31 they again became rebellious. Capt. Endressen tried to fall in with their wishes but they would have none of his terms, and when they proved stubborn he put them on a bread and water diet and "logged" (blacklisted) them.

Helped by Fair Weather.

Fortunately, while left in the lurch by the majority of the crew, the quarter who kept the Resolute on her course were favored by almost unbroken fair weather. Sometimes, however, there were calms, and once there was a gale. In this storm sail had to be taken in as well as circumstances would permit. The sailor took the wheel from 4 to 8 day and night. Capt. Endressen took it from 8 to 12 and Mrs. Endressen from 12 to 4. In addition to his enforced wheel duty the skipper had to renew ropes, mend sails and attend to other jobs which he had to do. Jobs which his crew should have been doing, and he had to navigate to Resolute. While he was below in his bunk for the little rest he was able to get his wife stood watch for him.

"I was nearly exhausted," said Mrs. Endressen when the vessel reached here, "under the strain of the heavy wheel and the constant watching. I said to myself, 'I must stand it for the Captain's sake.' I think the ship was very appropriately named. The men even insulted the captain in my presence, and most of the time they play cards in the fore-cabin and dance! Occasionally they climb out to the end of the jobboom to get a drink of beer. One day, after a long wait, we found out that the men were not to be content with lower sails because we had no topmast set and had to lower the only sail we had to lower in the whole 28 days was a spanker. We had a calm day's calm, other days I believe our position—our want of relief—would have been desperate. Altogether we covered about 2,500 miles under these difficulties. The steward cooked the meals besides helping on deck, but we always had our meals in the fore-cabin. Often I would be up on deck late at night on watch."

Did Not Break Law.

Capt. Endressen explained that apparently the striking crew expected him to do something violent, but he purposely refrained from breaking the law. Once, he said, the gasoline pump broke down (the Resolute being fitted with an auxiliary engine) and when he asked for help from the men they replied "Let it go, the ship will float. Eventually, however, the pump was repaired."

The Endressens' troubles ended when, on August 28, the Resolute reached Nine Island, which is about midway between Samoa and the Fiji groups and is under the New Zealand government. Here the contentious sailors concluded that it would be better for them if they quit their attitude of antagonism to the captain. They therefore, declared the strike off. As it was, the Resolute arrived here flying the signal for police assistance. This was forthcoming and the strikers, on being brought before United States Consul Megelsen, were fined for refusing duty and were paid off.

Mrs. Endressen was an ocean bride. In 1912 when Capt. Endressen was in command of the schooner G. W. Watson he was pinned at Papeete by his prospective bride. They had expected to be married at once, but they encountered an unforeseen obstacle in the form of a law in that French colonial town that weddings must be advertised 30 days in advance. But the skipper circumvented this by chartering a tug, enlisting the kindly services of a Belgian priest and having him perform the ceremony outside the three-mile limit. Shortly afterward when the Watson was rounding the Island of Raiatea in the Marquesas group her seams opened, she became unmanageable and at length she was driven ashore. All hands reached shore.

ANCIENT RITES AT AUSTRIAN FUNERAL

Body of the Late Emperor Francis Joseph Will Be Laid at the Cathedral.

Corpse of Ruler Will Be Carried Through Portal Snorn of his many Titles.

VIENNA, Nov. 27.—Ceremonies

dating back for centuries will mark the funeral of the late Francis Joseph on Thursday. The funeral procession will be held at the entrance of the vault in the crypt of the Capuchins by this challenge from within:

"Who is there?"
The reply will be:
"His Most Serene Majesty the Emperor, Francis Joseph."
The response will be made:
"I know him not."

A second challenge and reply of similar nature will then be made. But upon the third occasion that the question is repeated "the master of ceremonies accompanying the mortal remains of the late Emperor will respond:

"A sinful man, our brother, Francis Joseph."

The portals will then be flung open and the corpse will enter.

This rite is intended to show the successor to the Austro-Hungarian throne that, despite the power and pomp of the ruler, in the eyes of God and the Roman Catholic church he is merely a mortal.

Mrs. Jefferson Zimmerman and son Howard are the guests of relatives in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cremon left this morning for Continental where they will be the guests of Mr. Roy Rhoades.

Miss Marjorie Henderson has as her house guests, Miss Margaret Benninghofen of Hamilton, Ohio, and Miss Ruth Labman of Stillwater, Okla.

Carl Neville will return Wednesday to spend the remainder of the week with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Neville, of South Metcalf street.

Postponement has been made of the Chautauqua club which was to have met this evening, until tomorrow evening, at which time it will meet with Mrs. LeRoy Earl of North Jameson avenue.

One of the most important affairs of the week will be the appearance of Mme. Labadie, who will appear at the Elks' home Friday, December 1, under the auspices of the Lima Federation of clubs. Mme. Labadie will give "Romance," which is a most interesting play. The story begins:

Almost half a century ago when New York was captivated by Margherita Cavalini, a famous young opera singer. The glory of her voice carried away the most critical of music lovers, and her personal beauty and charming foreign ways completely bewitched her audiences.

A young and prominent clergyman meets her at the home of a friend but is unconscious of her identity and before he discovers it he has become one of her most ardent admirers almost against his will.

In the prologue the young clergyman is discovered as the bishop grown old at the moment when he learns that his young grandson is about to marry a young and beautiful actress. He decides to tell the young man the story of his own love affair and his renunciation of the lovely and gifted singer, and in the three acts that follow the great romance of his life is depicted.

Hints for the Housewife

There are ways of using cheaper cuts of meats, by long slow cooking, either by simmering or braising, by the addition of acid, lemon or vinegar, by grinding or pounding to make them tender. Some helpful recipes for stews and other kinds of meats were given at one of the western universities in a course of domestic economy. The directions follow:

Chuck stew—Into the vessel of the pressure cooker put 2 pounds of lean meat, 1 quart of water, 3 teaspoons of salt, and boil for 15 minutes. Add 6 allspice berries, 6 pepper corns, 1 bay leaf, 1/2 cup of carrots cut in cubes, 1/4 cup of turnip cubes, 1 cup of potato, and 1/4 cup chopped onion, and put in the fireless cooker for from 5 to 8 hours. An hour before serving thicken with 4 tablespoons of flour. Just before serving add 1 teaspoon of Worcester sauce.

Pot Roast (chuck)—Rub 2 pounds of beef over with vinegar and let it stand for one hour before cooking. Saute till well browned. Add 1 cup of water and simmer till the fiber is tender. Add 1 teaspoonful salt.

Salisbury Steak, Planked (chuck)—Grind the meat three times. To 1 pound of meat use 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, and 1 teaspoon of salt. Mold into form of steak on plank. Place in hot oven and, after 5 minutes, reduce the heat. Cook 12 to 15 minutes, if liked medium.

Swiss Steak—Take a round steak one-inch thick, place on a floured meat board and cover with flour. Pound in flour with the edge of a plate, till meat is tender. Pan-broil. Season with salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper, dot over with one tablespoon butter.

French Steak—Strip one skirt steak of fat. Remove the membrane, lay the steak on a board, place the fat at each end and roll. Skewer. Cut in one-inch slices and oven-broil 30 minutes. To oven-broil, put wire rack over a pie tin, or dipping pan, with a little hot water.

Croquettes in Paper Bag—Mix together one part ground meat to two parts of tomato sauce. For the sauce, three tablespoons of flour, three tablespoons butter, one cup of tomato flavor, 1/2 tablespoon of salt, 1/2 teaspoon of pepper.

Shape the croquettes, one tablespoon of mixture in a ball. Roll in bread crumbs, then beaten egg, then in bread crumbs again. Grease the inside of the bag well. Place croquettes in bag carefully. Close the bag by folding top over and fastening with paper clips or pins. Place in hot oven for 20 minutes.

PHILADELPHIA ORCHESTRA TONIGHT

Stomach Troubles.

Persons who have stomach trouble are apt to become discouraged. They will see by the following that their chances of recovery are excellent. A. K. One of his customers was so badly afflicted with stomach trouble that he was sent to a hospital, but received little benefit and came home to die. Mr. Williams suggested that he try Chamberlain's Tablets which he did, and today he is a well man and weighs 175 pounds. Obtainable everywhere. m-w-f

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Miss Mary Davies, bacteriologist at Ris-Orangels Hospital, of which Dr. Joseph A. One of the greatest dangers to wounded soldiers has been infection from having germ-laden pieces of uniforms shot into the flesh. Both the French and English authorities have investigated and tested the cloth, and David Lloyd George has ordered the next consignment of uniforms of the material developed by Miss Davies.

CHRISTMAS TREES NOT BEYOND REACH

Local Dealers' Supply is From Maine and Other New England States.

Artificial Trees Rapidly Displacing the Natural Yuletide Fir and Pine of Yore.

The price of Christmas trees will be— Now, get ready for the shock— No higher this year, tradesmen assert.

It is said there is no likelihood of a shortage, either, like that which took the price of yuletide greenery much higher right in the midst of the 1915 holiday buying season. Commission firms who do a big annual Christmas tree business say the Lima supply will begin to arrive in about three weeks.

The fir boughs and ornamental greenery will be here earlier.

The bulk of this year's crop of Christmas trees will come from New England. This will be nothing new, so far as local dealers are concerned, for in the past their purchases have been from Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire woodlands. A considerable supply of Michigan firm will be available this year, dealers say.

Last season the trees sold from 50 to 75 cents, up. The cheaper ones were the variety used in decorating tables.

Dealers do not receive their trees until within a few weeks of the yuletide, because the wood dries and the pine needles drop off. As yet there has been no successful means discovered for preserving the natural moisture of the little green trees after they are cut, so artificial trees have come into favor to some extent in the larger cities.

POPULAR JAPANESE ARTISTS AT FAUROT

One of Novelties of Drama for Saturday—Keith Act at Orpheum First Hall.

Varied Programs at Strand Dreamland and Royal, Including Charley Chaplin.

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES.

A play of strong dramatic and human appeal is "The Soul of Kura San," a new Paramount picture at the Faurot. It deals largely with the Orient and the clash of the different codes of the east and west that lead to tragedy. Sessue Hayakawa is starred, with Myrtle Stedman in the leading feminine role. Hayakawa adds new laurels to those he gained in "The Cheat," "Alien Souls," and "The Honorable Friend." Myrtle Stedman was loaned by the Pallas-Morocco studio for this production. She is a charming figure as the foil to the strong Japanese star.

There are series of beautiful pictures in Japan and this country. Picturesque vistas, with the characteristic presence of cherry trees in full bloom, added to the romance of the story of the Japanese lovers. The interiors of the artist's studio, a Japanese restaurant, and the Long Island home are all in keeping with the piece.

The cast is well selected. The photography is of high character. The clever use of light and shade is especially worthy of note.

This is a picture that ought to have a wide appeal, especially to people of refinement. It has the combination of art, heart-interest and suspense which are dear to the public. The feature is accompanied by a bray cartoon, "Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir" and a new edition of the Pathe News.

ROSE STAHL.

One of the real novelties to be seen here this season is scheduled for next Saturday night at the Faurot in the appearance of Rose Stahl in her latest success, "Our Mrs. McChesney." This comedy is a dramatization of the Edna Ferber McChesney stories and in the role of Mrs. McChesney Miss Stahl portrays a character which bids fair to bring her as great success as did "The Chorus Lady" and "Maggie Pepper." The stories have been dramatized by George V. Hobart and Miss Ferber, the most interesting incidents being woven into a comedy with now and then a bit of emotion. Mrs. McChesney's love for her son Jack touches the right note and helps greatly to make the play worth while.

ORPHEUM—VAUDEVILLE

That the Orpheum theater is offering the best to be had in vaudeville this season will be attested by the fact that the special feature the first three days of this week, starting today, is a great Keith vaudeville feature, Sumiko and Co., in an elaborate singing novelty. Mme. Sumiko was prima-donna at the Imperial theater, Tokio, and the press of larger cities visited by this act are very enthusiastic over the range of her voice. The entire act is out of the ordinary.

In addition, four other acts are on the program. Edward Mazur and Ed Clark in "The Penny Arcade" will furnish plenty of laughter; Clifton and Goss, two charming young ladies, in the singing and dancing act of which they wear some beautiful gowns, will prove a treat; the Novelty Trio, two ladies and a man, will offer a complete novelty in singing and dancing acts; Varonica, Lawrence and Hurdalls will amaze the audiences with their feats of dancing.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN.

Charlie Chaplin, popular screen comedian, will be shown at the Strand theater today. His portrayal of "The Woman" has proven one of his best character impersonations. In addition to the Chaplin feature, "The Wise Waiter," a Lubin feature will be shown.

THE LEOPARD'S BRIDE.

But few animal pictures have been shown in Lima recently, and for this reason the feature at the Royal today "The Leopard's Bride," is of interest. The picture is a pleasing change to the wild life of the forest. Margaret Gibson plays the lead, supported by the Bostock animals.

HELEN HOLMES

Hazardous Helen Holmes is scheduled at the Dreamland theater today in the fourth episode of "The Lass of the Lumberlands." Taken in dense forests this picture is a thrilling and spectacular feature.

Bluem's -- "The Christmas Store"

Commence Your Christmas Shopping Now--It's None Too Early

In recent years so much has been spoken and written in favor of this "early shopping" precept, and so many people have followed its advice, that it is fast becoming a proverb. The precept is indeed intensely practical.

Time for leisure thought in the purchase of gifts within one's limit of expenditure for Christmas presents, is positively necessary to satisfactory results. It is indeed the way that brings most satisfaction to the shopper and most pleasure to those who receive the gifts.

Early shopping makes certain that your "labor of love" is always best reflected in the gifts you choose, because you have had time to choose them properly, time to select exactly what "he" or "she" will appreciate and value.

Already we observe the advance guards of Christmas shoppers in the store and it is evident that more people than ever are making selections of Christmas gifts early.

You will find a wide selection of gift things here ready for you. Something for every one.

Universal Military Training and Service Will be One of the Topics Discussed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Leading men from all parts of the country will meet in Washington January 25 and 26 and 27 for a "Congress of Constructive Patriotism of Americans for America," the National Security League announced here today.

"Some months ago the league determined that the true basis of national security was not to be found in the army and navy alone, "which were merely expressions of a country's efficiency or inefficiency," says the league's statement, "but in the unified spirit of a people awake to the dangers inherent in neglect, vigilant of their rights and strongly united in the determination to achieve for their country its fullest moral as well as material development."

The congress will be open not only to the hundred thousand members of the league, but to all members of learned and patriotic societies and commercial, labor and agricultural associations.

A special committee on plan and scope consisting of S. Stanwood Menken, chairman; Lawrence P. Abbott, of the Outlook; and Chase Mellen and Alexander Gordon, two New York lawyers, is in charge of the details of the congress. This committee has arranged for a preliminary discussion of certain fundamental questions by men of recognized eminence. The statement says: "The program will include among other questions the following:

The scope and effects of universal training and service, both civil and military.

International relations and obligations and the necessity that their nature as affecting the future of this nation be generally understood.

Governmental and individual efficiency and the injuries which result from their neglect.

The function of education in the development of a true American patriotism.

Practical means and remedies whereby national carelessness and inefficiency may be eliminated and whereby there may be fostered a patriotism that shall find expression in everyday life.

"The main objective of the congress," said S. Stanwood Menken, chairman of the executive committee, "is to determine how, through education, the American people can be given exact, non-partisan knowledge of questions, that go to the root of America's position as a world power; to determine how to bring to the masses an understanding of the diplomatic problems the country has to deal with; and to show the direct relation which the solution of such problems has not alone upon individual prosperity, but the ultimate safety and destiny of the nation."

"Primarily related to the position of the country as a world power are not alone the defense questions, but the matter of industrial preparedness and the attainment of maximum efficiency of government in a manner suitable to the spirit of our people. These and kindred questions will be taken up by the league and it is hoped that the ultimate development of the congress will be a broad educational campaign carried along scientific lines for the presentation of these questions to the American people."

The problem of developing a unified American spirit will demand consideration of an entire session of the congress. The National Americanization committee, of which Frank Trumbull, chairman of the board of the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad is chairman, will provide a presiding officer and speakers for this session. The subjects for discussion will include educational preparedness for Americanization and the question of Americanizing immigrants.

The directors of the league are also of the belief, according to the statement, that efficiency in government and in civil life is a direct influence upon American development and a discussion of this phase of preparedness will include the substitution of careful planning for log-rolling in state finance; the efficiency of foreign governments and an outlook of financial planning for the nation.

Another subject regarded as vitally important is universal obligatory military training and service, says the statement. Not only will a session of the congress be devoted to a presentation of this question but it is planned to hold in Washington simultaneously with the congress a conference of representatives of patriotic societies, for the purpose of adopting a plan of concerted effort whereby an aggressive campaign to secure universal military training and service can be secured.

It is expected that considerable impetus for the movement to adopt such a system will be secured through the fact that the woman's section of the movement for national preparedness, which has recently been absorbed by the National Security League, has in possession the signed pledges of 11,000 women in favor of national service. Many women will attend the congress.
